Blaine Says Buchanan Carried it.

[To the Editor of the Interior Journal.]

LANCASTER, Oct. 12.—Respecting the controversy as to how Kentucky's electoral vote was cast in 1856, I find the following in Blaine's "Twenty Years of Congress," Vol. 1, page 129:

"Buchanan's election was not a surprise. Indeed it had been generally expected. He received the electoral vote of every Southern State except Maryland, which pronounced for Fillmore. In the North, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Illinois and California voted for Buchanan. The other eleven free States, beginning with Maine and ending with Iowa declared for Fillmore. The popular vote was for Buchanan, 1,838,109, Fremont, 1,341,264, Fillmore 874,534."

S. M. B.
The Brooklyn Union (Rep.) says: "The low plane to which the Blaine candidacy has brought down the republican party is perhaps nowhere more strikingly shown than in Massachusetts. A year ago the republican party was leading the self-respecting voters of the Bay State in a desperate effort to dislodge the demagogue who had intrenched himself in the State house and he was held up to scorn as the public enemy that he really is. This year the nomination by the republicans of a corrupt man for the Presidency has so endangered their hold upon Massachusetts that the only assurance of preventing Cleveland from carrying the State is by encouraging the diversion of democratic votes to Butler and the candidate of the 'People's party' is not only kindly treated by the republican press, but is receiving substantial support in his campaign from the republican managers. To such depths has sunk, under Jas. G. Blaine, the old party of Charles Sumner and John A. Andrew."

The New York Times says: "Cleveland's election would be the rescue of the most threatening vice of our time and country, the spirit of reckless speculation in business and of shameless jobbery. The two are one evil. The election of James G. Blaine would be a direct appeal to every young man to adopt dishonesty and affluence as the methods of success. There are some of the reasons which justify republicans in supporting a candidate not of their party. The American people must elect as president James G. Blaine, corruptionist, or Grover Cleveland, reformer. For which, reader, will you cast your vote?"

Ball, the tumble bug of Buffalo, whose chief ministerial labors during the summer have been the retailing of cheap and nasty slanders against Governor Cleveland, is about to be hoisted by his own petard. A lady of his congregation has furnished a statement which proves him a falsifier and establishes an effort to commit a greater sin than he has attempted to saddle upon Grover Cleveland. Mr. Ball should dig him a little hole by the wayside and tumble into it.

Newspapers printed at sea are not uncommon. The practice of publishing a paper on board ships was inaugurated on the steamer Great Britain, which started for Australia on the 21st of August, 1852. These seaborne journals do much to relieve the monotony of the passage, filled as they are with stories, burlesque telegrams and stories by the passengers and all the drift of story incidents that happen from week to week on ship board.

A painful accident happened to the son of Barney Heeneey, of Union Township, a few days ago. His mother sent him to the cornfield for roasting ears. He had to use a ladder to get up to the ears, when he climbed out upon an ear and proceeded to saw it off between himself and the stalk, precipitating him to the ground and bruising him severely. Had it not been that the shade of the corn had kept the ground moist and soft he would have been killed.—(Troy (Kansas) Chief.

Jefferson Davis is now the last of his line. He has been married twice and has no male descendant who bears his name. Not long since he lost his only son and recently the death of Gen. Joseph R. Davis, of Biloxi, Miss., took away the last hope of perpetuating by male descendants the name of Jefferson Davis.

The muster rolls of the United States army and navy show that in the war between the States there were enlisted 2,064,000 men.

CURE FOR PILES.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times symptoms of indigestion are present, as flatulency, uneasiness of the stomach, etc. A moisture, like perspiration, producing a very disagreeable itching, after getting warm, is a very common attendant. Blind, bleeding and itching Piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the Tumors, allaying the intense itching and affording a permanent cure. Price 50 cents. Address Dr. Bosanko Medicine Co., Piqua, Ohio. Sold by McRoberts & Stagg.

HUSTONVILLE, LINCOLN COUNTY.

—A. B. McKinney, wife and daughter, the last delegation of the excursionists, returned on Sunday, greatly pleased with their trip.

—Jno. C. Frye sold his farm on Carpenters Creek to Wm. Stagg—109 acres for $4,600. Mr. Frye embarks for Kansas and Mr. Stagg in matrimony.

—Mr. L. F. Sharp sold his residence in Hustonville, the old Logan property—to John S. Good for $2,000. Mr. G. was able in the trade to put in 5 head of horses for $1,200.

—Advices from Waco, Texas, announces the death, at that place on the 3d inst., of Miss Rosa, sister of our clever young merchant, Geo. B. Cooper. Miss Rosa was about 19 years of age; disease, typhoid fever.

—The talk in town is all railroad at present. It is impossible to predict the result. As the matter is to be discussed by able men previous to the day of voting we shall probably be able to vote intelligently. Just now we are in search of more light.

—Rev. L. S. McElroy met his congregation here on Sunday. Elder Munnell is still at work at the Christian church. Rev. T. P. Hale is getting up considerable interest in the Baptist church at McKinney. Some thirteen persons were baptized in connection with this meeting on Saturday.

Don't Want a Bow-legged Husband.

"I can not sit on your lap."

Regally beautiful was Beryl Hopkins as she stood there that soft June night in the dim, half light that filtered through the exquisitely draped portiere separating the parlor of her father's magnificent residence from the conservatory into which she and Harold Holdback quite leisurely wandered. From childhood Beryl had always loved flowers—bright, pretty flowers, whose vivid colors set off to the best possible advantage the statuesque lines of her queenly form—and now as she stood among them, blushing roses on one hand and pale delicate lilies on the other, it was no wonder that the soft flesh tint and bewitching curves of her face and arms fairly intoxicated Harold Holdback and made him more madly in love than ever with this June-like girl who had promised that ere the autumn tints on the heather had faded she would crown the bliss of courtship with the sacred halo of a wisely love and devotion.

And so when the lips that had been wont to give him kisses—sweet, rapturous, were the sole agents for this brand which set his brain in a whirl and almost broke his suspenders—had said to him the words with which this chapter opens, he was unable to reply. The lights seemed fading away, black clouds overspread the horizon of his existence, and sore-eyed Care stood knock-kneed upon the summit of a life that such a little while ago seemed to hold only joy and hope.

But it was only for an instant that this weakness mastered him, and drawing himself up proudly he said: "Why can you not sit on my lap? I know, of course, that the words you have spoken mean that we are not to marry, that—

"What?" shrieked the girl in an agony of grief. "Not marry? My God, Harold, and did you for an instant think that my love for you had faltered; that to be your wife was not the sole ambition of my life? Ah, this is indeed too much," and turning away she silently watered a horse-geranium with the hot, bitter tears of sorrow and remorse.

"Then you still love me?" he asked.

"Better than ever," the words coming slowly between large hand-made sobs.

"Then why will you not sit on my lap?"

"Because," she answered in tones that filled his very blood, "I do not desire a bow-legged husband."—(Chicago Tribune.

THE PASSION FOR CITY LIFE.—Dr. Johnson once said that to live in London enabled a man to see the whole world, with all its schemes, excitements and never-ceasing novelties. Perhaps it is this exciting feature of city life which continually draws ambitious young men from independent and comfortable homes in the country and smaller towns to the large cities. How else can the wide spread passion for city life be accounted for? To share in this metropolitan excitement men seem ready to run any risk and brave the perils of bankruptcy. In a season like the present, when so many strong firms, after long years of strenuous toil and assiduous application, have perished, it would be well for those who are thriving in comfortable independence in the quietude of country towns to adopt the golden philosophy of contentment. Great cities are the necessary outgrowth of a great country, but the country makes them, not they the country; and unquestionably to the majority, the greater their ventures the greater will be the peril of a disastrous ending.

The rich and dashing Mrs. Wetmore, who has just been acquitted in New York of bigamy, can not read nor write. Her early opportunities were neglected and as she was seven times married, she afterward found no time to devote to such unnecessary accomplishments.

JUST AS GOOD.

Many unscrupulous dealers may tell you they have remedies for Coughs and Colds equal in merit and in every respect just as good as the old reliable Dr. Bosanko Cough and Lung Syrup, unless you insist upon this remedy and will take no other, you are liable to be greatly deceived. Price, 50 cents and $1.00. Sold by McRoberts & Stagg.

PAINT LICK, GARRARD COUNTY.

—D. G. Slaughter is making great preparations for his entertainment on the 18th. —Some of our sportsmen are disregarding the game law, and have commenced war on the birds.

—Our farmers have about all their tobacco housed and are complaining of its being injured in the house.

—What a pity our town is not incorporated. We have a lot of idle negroes that are fit subjects for the rock pile.

—Mr. J. Allen, of Livingston, entered upon the duties as railroad agent at this place Saturday. J. W. Smith and J. R. Henry have gone to Kansas prospecting. J. G. Barnes has just returned from the city, where he has been laying in a stock of goods for C. Shumate. Willis Ad-Jr., and wife, of Mt. Vernon, are visiting relatives here.

CUT CORN EARLY.—Corn should be cut very early; that is much earlier than usual and while it is yet quite green, for then the grain will be just as good, and the fodder be worth as much again. Just as soon as the corn is cut the stubble should be cultivated or dragged and sowed to rye or oats, dragged again the other way and left to grow. This by the time the husking is done will give a fine green crop for pasturing, or to use for shading the soil, or for green manuring, and the following year the soil will be in the best possible condition for its next field crop. Corn I believe to be the nicest crop our farmers grow. Its production seems quite natural and easy for our land, the tilling of it with modern tools and management is mostly done with horses, and not with much more outlay of work than the common summer fallow requires. The stover, if properly managed, will give about as much as a good fodder, acre for acre, as a common meadow would. The grain is also as good as other crops of any kind on the farm, and then the corn stubble might furnish the best fall and other spring pasture, if wanted for that purpose, and withal the land is kept clear of foul growth until wanted for another farm crop.—[Henry Ives.

THE STICK THAT WAS LEFT.—Maurice Melrose is one of the "greenery" gallery young men who fills a vacancy in society, and the other evening he was out calling. He stayed about an hour and went of leaving his cane in the hall. He missed it in a few minutes and came back after it, the young lady's sister meeting him at the door.

"Aw, my little girl," he said, "weally, I beg your pardon; don't you know, but I think I left a stick back."

"I don't think you did, Mr. Melrose. I heard sister say so."

"Aw, indeed, you flatter me; but how should your sister know? She did not see me go out, don't you know?"

"I don't know sir, but I heard her say to Mr. Benton, when you left: 'Well, thank heaven, that stick's gone at last.' That's all I know about it, Mr. Melrose."

He didn't prosecute his inquiries any further.

ARTIFICIAL ICE.—A lecture on artificial ice was lately delivered in London in which Mr. Le Fevre stated that "hitherto difficulties had to be encountered in the manufacture of ice, chief among which was this—that ice could only be produced in small thin cakes opaque and snowy in appearance, owing to the complication of the machinery. Recently patented machinery and appliances had overcome these difficulties and could produce ice perfectly pure and transparent in large solid blocks of uniform size and thickness. Manufactured ice was purer, cheaper and more lasting than natural ice. The introduction of artificial ice has broken down a monopoly which had existed in the market for natural ice, and there was now no reason why the consumption of ice should not be widespread and popular."

Rag-weed is becoming a formidable pest in many sections and it is undoubtedly with some persons a cause of hay fever. It appears abundantly in the stubble of wheat fields and when in blossom the pollen wafted by the winds produces a ticklish sensation in the nose and eyes. In wheat fields it starts up more quickly than young clover and a month after harvest if the mower is run over the field just low enough to cut off the clover leaves, the rag-weed will thereafter be kept under. As it is an annual, a good growth of clover entirely smother it the second year so that none will appear in the hay.

The qualification required for a voter in the State of Kentucky is that he must be a male citizen, 21 years of age, having resided two years in the State, or one year in the county and 60 days in a precinct immediately preceding an election.

A species of lizard called the hell-bender is now considered a delicacy by New York epicures. It is about 10 inches in length and of a dirty mud color, and provided with four legs and a tail, the flesh is said to be delicious.

Our government has now $170,000,000, or 600 freight car loads of silver dollars piled up in its treasury vaults, and is still manufacturing at the rate of two million a month.

FREE DISTRIBUTION.

"What causes the great rush at McRoberts & Stagg's Drug Store?" The free distribution of sample bottles of Dr. Bosanko's Cough and Lung Syrup, the most popular remedy for Coughs, Colds, Consumption and Bronchitis now on the market. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00.

BLAINE'S METHODS.

"The Essence of the Mulligan Letters." "You offer to admit me to a participation in the new railroad enterprise in every respect as generous as I could expect or desire."

"You spoke of Mr. Caldwell disposing of a share of his interest to me. If he really designs to do so I wish he would make the proposition definite, so that I could know just what to depend on. Perhaps, if he waits till the full development of the enterprise, he might grow reluctant to part with his share, and I do not by this mean any distrust of him."

"I do not feel that I shall prove a dead end in the enterprise if I once embark in it. I see various channels in which I know I can be useful."

"You ask me if I am satisfied with the offer you made of a share in your new railroad enterprise. Of course, I am more than satisfied with the terms of the offer. I think it a most liberal proposition."

"Enclose you part of the Congressional Globe of April 9, containing the point to which I referred at some length in my previous letter of to-day. You will find it of interest to read it over and see what a narrow escape your bill made on that last night of the session. Of course, it was my plain duty to make the ruling when the point was once raised."

"I beg you to understand that I thoroughly appreciate the courtesy with which you have treated me in this railroad matter, but your conduct toward me in business matters has only been marked by unbounded liberality in past years, and of course I have naturally come to expect the same of you now."

"I am bothered by only one thing, and that is the indefinite arrangements with Mr. Caldwell. I am anxious to acquire the interest he has promised me, but I do not get a definite understanding with him as I have with you."

"In this dilemma I came to know what on earth he would do under the rules, for he said it was vital to his constituents that the bill should pass. I told him that Julian's amendment was entirely out of order, because not germane; but he had not sufficient confidence in his knowledge of the rules to make the point, but he said Gen. Logan was opposed to the Fremont scheme, and would probably make the point. I sent my page to Gen. Logan with the suggestion, and he at once made the point. I could not do otherwise than sustain it."

Don't Look Like a Wreck.

"When a man is going down hill everybody is ready to give him a kick." Yes, that is so. It is so, but natural. Why, many a man and woman, seeking employment, would have got it if their hair hadn't been so thin and gray. One bottle of Parker's Hair Restorer is then the best investment. It stops falling hair, promotes new growth and restores color. Clean, highly perfumed, not a dye. A great improvement over any similar preparation and sold at the low price of 50c.

A New Discovery.

Mr. Wm. Thomas, of Newton, Iowa, says, "My hair has been seriously affected with a cough for twenty-five years, and this spring more than ever before. She had used many remedies without relief, and being urged to try Dr. King's New Discovery, did so, with most gratifying results. The first bottle relieved her very much and the second bottle absolutely cured her. She has not had so good health for thirty years." Trial bottles free at Penny & McAllister's Drug Store. Large size $1.

Positive Cure for Piles.

To the people of this county we would say that we have been given the agency of Dr. Marchal's Italian Pile Ointment—emphatically guaranteed to cure or money refunded—Internal, External, Blind, Bleeding or Itching Piles. Price 50 cents a box. No cure, no pay. Penny & McAllister, Druggists.
